

Capsule Summary for 65 Maryland Avenue
AA-27

Built in the period between 1921 and 1924, the building at 65 Maryland Avenue is located on property that was originally part of the tract of land associated with the Wesley Chapel Methodist Episcopal Church. The history of the property illustrates the development of the sole-surviving vacant lot on Maryland Avenue between State Circle and Prince George Street. Additionally the building designated as 65 Maryland Avenue illustrates the use of the vernacular style in the early 20-century, while similar to the late 19th century commercial buildings found in historic Annapolis.

Abutting the iron-fronted building at 67-69 Maryland Avenue towards the west and standing free on its eastern side, 65 Maryland Avenue is a two-story, two-bay building with commercial space on the first floor and apartments on the second floor. Set upon a brick foundation and built of hollow tile, the building is clad on the front elevation by a buff-colored common bond brick veneer and on the side elevation by stucco. The rear elevation has brick on the first floor and stucco above. The primary elevation of the building faces Maryland Avenue and is characterized by the first floor store front, the side-passage entry leading to the second floor apartments, and the projecting wooden cornice with modillions. The narrow building is covered with a sloped roof with a single, brick chimney located towards its rear.

The commercial building at 65 Maryland Avenue was constructed on the sole-surviving vacant lot on the block of Maryland Avenue between State Circle and Prince George Street between 1921 and 1924¹. The narrow, two-bay store stands two stories in height and was built in a vernacular style similar to the late 19th century commercial buildings found in historic Annapolis.

Abutting the iron-fronted building at 67-69 Maryland Avenue towards the west and standing free on its eastern side, 65 Maryland Avenue is a two-story, two-bay building with commercial space on the first floor and apartments on the second floor. Set upon a brick foundation and built of hollow tile, the building is clad on the front elevation by a buff-colored common bond brick veneer and on the side elevation by stucco. The rear elevation has brick on the first floor and stucco above. The primary elevation of the building faces Maryland Avenue and is characterized by the first floor store front, the side-passage entry leading to the second floor apartments, and the projecting wooden cornice with modillions. The narrow building is covered with a sloped roof with a single, brick chimney located towards its rear.

The two-bay facade consists, on the first floor, of a storefront and a side-passage entry and, on the second floor of two regularly spaced windows. The store front, altered in the mid-20th century, consists of a polygonal glass window bay next to the recessed entry leading into the first floor commercial space. The fixed window has 25 square panes on the front, two long and narrow panes abutting at the corner to form a bevelled edge and 20 square panes on the side next to the entry door. The store entry features a wood and glass replacement door. Unlike the recessed store entry, the apartment entry is flush with the building's facade and features a 6-panelled wood and glass replacement door. Glazed tiles, added to the brick-fronted building during the alteration of the storefront in the mid-20th century, are located above the store front and side-passage door and below the second floor windows. Two rows of approximately three-inch square glazed black tiles are located directly above the store front as a frieze, or stringcourse. This stringcourse is separated by two-rows of larger, approximately 18-inch square, mustard- colored glazed tiles by a molded wood cornice of the storefront. Above the mustard-colored tiles is a wooden cornice with an unornamented recessed panel. The second floor of the building has two 1/1 windows with jack-arched brick lintels. A brick stringcourse, two bricks wide, is located above the second floor windows. A projecting wood cornice with a wooden entablature and wooden modillions finishes the front elevation.

The exposed eastern side elevation, clad with stucco, is separated approximately three feet from the building at 61 Maryland Avenue and has six, 1/1 window openings. The rear elevation, brick on the first floor and stucco above, has a single 1/1 window on the second floor.

The interior of the building consists of a single, long and narrow room in the first floor commercial space, an enclosed stair leading to the second floor and the second floor apartment above. The first floor store, now the Leather and Fur Shoppe, has plain plaster walls and a pressed tin ceiling with a curved and floral-patterned tin cornice. The stairs, leading to the second floor apartments of 65 Maryland Avenue as well as 67-69 Maryland Avenue, are accessible from the exterior side-passage entry.² The stairs are wooden and lead to a wood panelled door, which opens onto the three separate apartments located above the two buildings. The apartments were not surveyed.

² Although these stairs are located on the same site as the wooden exterior stairs which led to the second floor of the commercial building at 69 Maryland Avenue and indicated on the Sanborn Maps, it appears that these stairs were specifically built as interior stairs to both 65 and 69 Maryland Avenue.

Built in the period between 1921 and 1924, the building at 65 Maryland Avenue is located on property that was originally part of the tract of land associated with the Wesley Chapel Methodist Episcopal Church. The history of the property illustrates the development of the sole-surviving vacant lot on Maryland Avenue between State Circle and Prince George Street. Designated as part of lot 82 and all of lot 81 on the Stoddert Map of 1718, the Smith property originally was bounded by Maryland Avenue, State Circle and Prince George Street. After the death of John Smith in 1737, the property was owned by his daughter, Sarah Smith. That same year Sarah Smith married John Ramsay. In 1772, the daughter of Sarah and John Ramsay married Vachel Stevens. Vachel Stevens leased the property to the Knowles family. Documentation states that in 1782, Edward Knowles received a liquor license and operated a saloon on the property.³ By 1787, John Welsh opened a tavern in a house that was formerly occupied by the Knowles family. In 1788, the tax assessment records document that John Welsh was living on the lots at L40 rent in an "L-shaped dwelling with a 30x18 wing and a 24x18 wing; 16x26 kitchen, both out of repair. A 10x20 old smokehouse and an almost new stable, 20x20."⁴

When Vachel Stevens died in 1787, his sons John Mercer Stevens and John Ramsay Stevens acquired the land. In 1790, John Mercer Stevens was assessed with one frame dwelling and an outhouse. Upon his death in 1803, his daughter, Sarah Stevens received a dwelling, kitchen and an outhouse. In 1821, Sarah Stevens, now Anderson, conveyed the property to Baruch Fowler who reconveyed it back to Stevens immediately.⁵ Two years later, Sarah Anderson and her husband, Theodore, conveyed the property to Jacob Williams. Lot 81 and part of lot 82 contained several houses at the time of the sale

in 1823.⁶

In 1848, the heirs of Jacob Williams conveyed the property to Daniel M. Sprogle.⁷ Sprogle was born in Maryland on September 30, 1822 and died in 1889. In 1848, Daniel Sprogle was employed to lay the brickwork for the First Presbyterian Church on Duke of Gloucester Street. He was a Trustee for the Church between 1862 and 1868. He was listed in the 1850 Census Records as a white male, 27 years old with a land worth of $1,500. He operated a lumber mill and was listed on the 1880 Census Records as a builder. Daniel married Rebecca Catherine Welch. The couple had four children, Hester Katherine Culver, J.H. Sprogle, Daniel Stansbury Sprogle, and Rizpah Welch Ladd.⁸ Sprogle owned a majority of the property on the southern side of Maryland Avenue and was responsible for the subdivision and sale of 41-43 Maryland Avenue westward to 77 Maryland Avenue.

Within months of purchasing the property, Daniel Sprogle sold it to George Jones and Philip Clayton.⁹ Philip Clayton reconveyed his half share to George Jones, who owned the undeveloped property until 1870 when it was sold by Alexander B. Hagner, Trustee.¹⁰ The Trustees of the Wesley Chapel Methodist Episcopal Church purchased the entire parcel located at 65-69 Maryland Avenue, and constructed a brick chapel. According to the Sanborn Maps of 1885, the building was 20-feet to the eaves and occupied three-quarters of the parcel. A small square frame building was located to the north of the chapel. The one-story, two-room deep building was used as the "parish shop."¹¹ A two-story frame dwelling was located on the property to the southeast of the chapel. By 1897, both of the frame buildings were demolished.

The Trustees maintained the property over the next 30-years, when it was sold to William and Mary Childs.¹² Childs demolished the chapel and constructed a two-story brick building with an iron facade at 67-69 Maryland Avenue. According to the early Sanborn Maps, the property located at 65 Maryland Avenue contained a small L-shaped frame addition at the southeast corner of the brick building, and a frame straight-flight stair at the northern corner.

In 1908, William Childs sold the property located at 65-67 Maryland Avenue to William J. and Grace Wolff.¹³ Wolff conveyed it the following year to Philip B. and Eleanor M. Cooper.¹⁴ In 1911, the property was sold to Walter H. and Beatrice E. Hart, who maintained it until 1923 when it was sold to Theodore S. Samaras.¹⁵ The addition and the stair were removed between 1921 and 1924, and the present two-story hollow tile building was constructed on the 42-foot x 59-foot site.¹⁶

Samaras sold the building in 1928 to Gregory and Artemisia Characklis.¹⁷ According to the City Directories for 1928-1929, the building was used by Edgar H. Pickering, photographer. It was sold again in 1931 to Steve Foundas.¹⁸ During the ownership of Foundas, the building located at 65 Maryland Avenue was leased as Ruth's Beauty Salon in 1949 and in 1954. The second floor contained a rental apartment, with a common straight-flight entry located at 67 Maryland Avenue. Upon the death of Foundas in 1957, Steve

A black and white photograph of a shop's interior. The ceiling is made of square, coffered tiles. Two large, round, frosted glass pendant lamps hang from the ceiling by dark cords. A dark, rectangular sign with a white border is suspended below the lamps. The sign has the text "LEATHER & FUR SHOPPE" in a bold, serif font. In the background, a wooden chair and other shop items are partially visible.
